Each one of our courses has three learning moments: Working with information, Expanding my learning, and Applying in my own context. Each one of these moments has contents and assignments of reflection and application, that will be reviewed by a tutor who will provide feedback to the student. These tutors are also teachers that have been trained in our tutoring model. Our permanent tutoring is focused on the pedagogical reflection stablished from the feedback of each activity, and in the ongoing communication through the tools of our platform.

Every course also considers a micro practice, where the student is offered two alternatives to work on a brief, contextualized practice, that allows them to experience the knowledges acquired and to reflect on that experience. This micro practice and its different stages are also accompanied, assessed, and given feedback by the tutor. In this way, we reinforce contextualized learning and permanent reflection over their own practice.

METHODOLOGY

Each one of our courses has three learning moments:

- Working with information
- Expanding my learning
- Applying in my own context.

Each one of these moments has contents and assignments of reflection and application, that will be reviewed by a tutor who will provide feedback to the student. These tutors are also teachers that have been trained in our tutoring model.

Our permanent tutoring is focused on the pedagogical reflection stablished from the feedback of each activity, and in the ongoing communication through the tools of our platform.

Every course also considers a micro practice, where the student is offered two alternatives to work on a brief, contextualized practice, that allows them to experience the knowledges acquired and to reflect on that experience. This micro practice and its different stages are also accompanied, assessed, and given feedback by the tutor.
